Manifold: Space (Manifold, #2) by Stephen Baxter

2 thoughts on " Space [Manifold] // Stephen Baxter [Spoilers] " Liked this review very much – because of its literary style (we get a glimpse into what the 'narrator' thinks/feels) rather than just recounting the 'facts' of the story and then ticking off a list of good/bad criticism.

Manifold: Time is a 1999 science fiction novel by Stephen Baxter. It is the first of Baxter's Manifold Trilogy (the others being Manifold: Space and Manifold: Origin), although the books can be read in any order because the series takes place in a multiverse.. The book was nominated for the 2000 Arthur C. Clarke Award.

Time (Baxter novel) - Wikipedia

Manifold Space is the second book in the trilogy, but isn't really a sequel. Instead, it is more like Stephen Baxter's second proposed answer to the Fermi Paradox ("If ET's are out there, why haven't they contacted us?"). Malenfant returns, but he's cast in a different role with a different character, and frankly gets a lot less ink.

Hamilcar's Books: Manifold Space - Stephen Baxter

I was astounded by Stephen Baxter's first novel in the Manifold duo, Manifold: Time. Honestly, I enjoyed Time more than Space, but Manifold: Space is truly just as fascinating. Baxter has a wonderful job with his ability to flawlessly write true hard science fiction that incorporates real science into the story.
