One for the money, two for the show is half of a rhyme used as a countdown to begin a task. The entire rhyme is: one for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go. Children have used this little poem since the mid-1800s as a countdown to starting a race or competition.

One for the money, two for the show - Grammarist

"One for the money, two for the show, three to make ready, go!" is an old rhyme used by children before the start of a race. It seems to date back to the late 18th century and can be found in old texts. I can only assume it morphed from there into more common use and was eventually picked up by singers.
